WELCOME

to Technische Universität Berlin

A Guide for International Researchers
Dear colleague,

I highly appreciate the fact that you have chosen to teach and conduct research at the Technische Universität Berlin, and I would like to welcome you cordially. For your time at the TU Berlin, I would like to provide you with some information about general topics and with some helpful hints and check lists for organizing your stay in Berlin. For further information please contact the team at the Scientific Cooperation Section of the International Affairs Office. They are there to help you with all the necessary formalities and with advice. On behalf of the entire Executive Board I wish you a successful and pleasant stay at the TU Berlin.

Preparing your stay in Berlin

Contacts at the TU Berlin

The TU Berlin looks forward to hosting you!

We want to help you make your stay in Berlin as pleasant as possible and to support you before, during and after your arrival.

The TU Berlin is, like most German universities, decentralized. Most research topics are determined directly by the faculties and departments. If you are planning a research stay at the TU Berlin and still do not have a host professor, you should contact the appropriate institute or faculty in advance. This way, you can arrange a stay at the TU Berlin.

Overview of all faculties and departments:

International Affairs Office

The Scientific Cooperation Section actively supports scientific cooperation between the TU Berlin and partners around the world and also seeks to identify new avenues of cooperation. In addition, the Scientific Cooperation Section welcomes international visiting researchers and provides them with support throughout the entire duration of their stay at the university.

Dual Career Service for dual-career couples

The TU Berlin Dual Career Service offers advisory services for newly appointed professors. The service provides the information you will need in order to find suitable accommodation and childcare options, to navigate through the German school system and to adjust to everyday life in Berlin. The service also provides career transition counselling services for your partner, for example by arranging contacts with potential employers in the region.

Scientists who come to Germany with a research scholarship are usually exempt from taxation. It is advisable, however, to consult the scholarship provider on this subject.

Check list

Before you arrive in Germany there are some important things you should take care of. The TU Berlin wants to support you in the best way possible with all the relevant information you might need to know.

Some matters concerning your research stay can already be dealt with before your arrival. We hope the following check list will help you to prepare your stay in Berlin as well as possible while you are still in your country of origin.

- Register at the Scientific Cooperation Section of the International Affairs Office of the TU Berlin:
  www.tu-berlin.de/?id=148734
- Your passport has to be valid for the entire duration of your stay in Germany.
- In case you need an entrance visa, please apply for it as early as possible. Please obtain the relevant information early enough at the German embassy in your country.
- Several biometrical photographs are required. The specifications can be found on our website:
  www.betreuung-int-stud.tu-berlin.de/menue/home/parameter/en/
- To simplify your life in Berlin, it is useful to take along officially authenticated copies of your most important documents and certificates as well as all important medical documents, if possible translated into German.
- Please take out a health insurance which is valid in Germany. For health insurance, see the section “Health insurance”.
For accommodation, see the section “Accommodation”.
Please apply for an international driver’s license, if you want to drive in Germany.
If your family is joining you and you need a place in a kindergarten or school, useful information can be found in the section “Living with your family in Berlin”.

Accommodation

The housing situation in Berlin has changed a lot in the last few years. Meanwhile, finding a suitable and furnished apartment in the city center can be tough. Therefore, we recommend to start with your search as early as possible. The TU guesthouse provides accommodation for medium and long term stays (up to 1 year) for international visiting scholars (postdocs). Since the demand is much higher than the capacity, please get in touch with us as early as possible.

Directions to the TU Berlin

Bus and subway stations near the central campus

U-Bahn: Station Ernst-Reuter-Platz, Line U2 (Red line)
Bus: Stop Ernst-Reuter-Platz, Lines M45, 245 and X9
     Stop Steinplatz, Lines M45 and 245
S-Bahn: Station Zoologischer Garten, Lines S5, S7 and S75
       Station Tiergarten, Lines S5, S7 and S75

From the airport

Tegel Airport:
Bus: Line X9 to Ernst-Reuter-Platz
     (travel time: about 20 minutes).

Schönefeld Airport:
From the station Airport Berlin-Schönefeld take the Regional Express train RE7 (direction Dessau) or the Regional Train RB14 (direction Nauen). Get out at Zoologischer Garten station and from there either take subway Line U2 (direction Ruhleben) and get off at Ernst-Reuter-Platz station (next stop) or go by bus M45, 245 or X9 to Ernst-Reuter-Platz (total travel time: about 1 hour).

From Berlin Central Railway Station:
From the Central Railway Station take the local train or the S-Bahn (the lines direction Charlottenburg, Westkreuz, Potsdam and Spandau) to Zoologischer Garten station. From there either take subway Line U2 (direction Ruhleben) and get off at Ernst-Reuter-Platz station (next stop) or go by bus M45, 245 or X9 to Ernst-Reuter-Platz station (total travel time: about 20 minutes). Alternatively, travel to Tiergarten station and walk 10 minutes to TU Berlin.
By car

Coming from the north – Hamburg/Rostock (A24 Autobahn):
At the motorway junction Oranienburg take the A111 to Berlin-Zentrum, and turn onto the A100 at the motorway junction Charlottenburg. Leave at the Kaiserdamm exit, and turn left at the end of the slip road to turn onto the Kaiserdamm boulevard (later called Bismarckstraße). Continue over the roundabout into Straße des 17. Juni, and the main building of the TU Berlin is on your right after approximately 100 metres.

From Hanover (A2) and Leipzig, Nuremberg:
Take the motorway A10 (Berliner Ring) to the Drewitz motorway junction, then the AVUS (A115) to Berlin-Zentrum. At the Funkturm follow the signs indicating Wedding, but then take the first exit to Kaiserdamm. Turn left at the end of the slip road to turn onto the Kaiserdamm boulevard (later called Bismarckstraße). Continue over the roundabout into Straße des 17. Juni, and the main building of the TU Berlin is on your right after approximately 100 metres.

First steps in Berlin

After your arrival in Berlin, there are some formalities that need to be taken care of before you can focus on your scientific work. The following information and the link below will help you to get started in Berlin.
www.talent-berlin.de/en/come-to-berlin/first-steps/

Health insurance

All researchers and their accompanying family members must take out a health insurance policy that covers them from the first day in Germany. To get a residence permit, you will be required to submit the proof of your insurance cover. You should check that your insurance in your home country covers medical and hospital expenses in Germany. Normally, this only applies if there is a social security agreement between Germany and your home country. You can inquire about this possibility with your own insurance company and the appropriate authorities in your home country. If it does apply, you will need a written verification of your coverage in Germany from your health insurance agency. If this does not apply, then you will have to get health insurance in Germany. The two types of health insurance in Germany are statutory health insurance and private health insurance. Their availability depends on whether you will be working in Germany on the basis of a scholarship, fellowship or an employment contract. If you fund your stay in Germany independently or by means of a fellowship, there is only the possibility of taking out private health insurance cover. There are numerous offers for private health insurance. Some scholarship holders are already insured by their scholarship providers, e.g. the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) and the Alexander von Humboldt-Foundation. If you possess an employment contract, you are obliged to take out statutory German health insurance.

Information on the German health insurance system is available from the website of the Federal Ministry of Health:
www.bmg.bund.de/krankenversicherung.html

Social security

If you have concluded a contract of employment in Germany with a university or research institution, you must generally pay the statutory social security contributions. The contributions are shared between the employer and the employee. They are automatically deducted from your salary by the employer and paid into the insurance fund. As a fellowship holder you are generally exempt from social security contributions. You can find more information on German social insurance on this website:

EU Social Security Coordination:
http://ec.europa.eu/social/home.jsp?langId=en
Registering at the Registration Office

Everybody staying longer than 2 months in Germany is obliged to register at the Registration Office ("Meldestelle") at a "Bürgeramt". Within one week after your arrival or in case your address in Berlin changes, you have to register yourself and all family members who are accompanying you at the Registration Office of your residential area. At the Registration Office you will receive:

- Registration certificate ("Meldebescheinigung"): you will need the registration certificate for example for the extension of your visa and to open a bank account.
- Tax identification number (lIdNr.): you will need the tax identification number (IdNr.) if you have an employment contract and receive a salary.

For the registration at the Registration Office, please bring along the following original documents:

1. Valid passport
2. Rental contract
3. For family members: certificates of marriage and birth certificates

The necessary registration form can be obtained directly at your "Bürgeramt" or downloaded here:
http://service.berlin.de/dienstleistung/120686

Your local registration office can be found on:
http://service.berlin.de/buergerberatung-aemter

On the websites of the "Bürgerämter" you can make an appointment in order to avoid unnecessary waiting time.

If you change your apartment during your stay, you have to notify the local Registration Office of your new living area about your new address. If you leave Germany at the end of your research stay, you must deregister yourself from the Registration Office.
Residence Permit

The following country and visa information is subject to constant change and we strongly advise you to check the website of the Federal Foreign Office:
www.auswaertiges-amt.de/EN/Startseite_node.html

You do not usually need a visa if you are an EU national or from the countries Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway or Switzerland. You may enter Germany using your national identity card. Please note that from 7 January 2013 you will no longer need to obtain a Freedom of Movement Certificate (“Freizügigkeitsbescheinigung”) for periods of residence of more than three months.

Citizens of Australia, Canada, Israel, Japan, New Zealand, the Republic of Korea and the USA will be required a residence permit if they stay for more than three months or/and take up paid employment (generally speaking, a visa is not required for visits of up to 90 days in an 180-day period). They can apply for this once they enter Germany.

For citizens of non-EU countries: When your research stay is not longer than 90 days, you can apply for a Schengen visa. Please note that if you are planning to stay in Germany for more than three months you must apply for a national visa for Germany while you are still in your home country or current country of residence. This applies even if you are already staying in another EU country.

Do not, under any circumstances, enter Germany on a Schengen visa. This type of visa cannot be extended and only entitles you to stay in Germany for a maximum of three months. You would then have to return to your own country at your own expense and apply for the right visa there. The same applies to family members.

National visas for the purpose of carrying out research (scientific visa) was introduced with the latest immigration law reform. As an international researcher you can now apply for a scientific visa, which is simultaneously issued with a residence document for research purposes. One prerequisite for this is the conclusion of a contract with a recognized research institution such as the TU Berlin.

An overview of the German residence law for citizens of non-EU countries can be found here:
https://www.hrk.de/hrk-international/mobility-and-mutual-recognition/mobility-of-researchers/
Visa service of the TU Berlin

For visa and residency issues please feel free to contact the visa service of the TU Berlin. You can also renew your residence permit through the visa service.

Important: If you opt for the use of the visa service at the TU Berlin, please note that the processing takes about 4 weeks and during this time you will need to hand in your passport.

To find the requirements for an extension of stay as well as other information, such as the opening times of the visa service, please visit:

Foreigners' Registration Office

Scientists from all over the world and their family members can make an appointment at the Foreigners' Registration Office by using this link:
http://service.berlin.de/standort/121885/en

For the registration at the Foreigners' Registration Office please bring along the following documents:
- valid passport
- rental contract in Berlin
- proof of a valid health insurance policy
- 4 biometric passport photos
- registration certificate from the Registration Office
- for spouses/children: marriage certificate/birth certificate
- your employment contract, your grant contract or other proof of the financing of your stay in Germany

If your partner or your children are accompanying you, you should submit applications for yourself and your family members at the same time – even if your family will arrive several weeks later.
Opening a bank account

To open a bank account you need your passport and residence permit. Often a registration certificate is required on which your address in Berlin is noted (you will receive the registration certificate when registering at the Registration Office).

Campus card for international researchers

As an international visiting researcher you are a member of the TU Berlin and thus entitled to a campus card. The campus card enables you to:
– receive a TU email account
– use the TU Berlin libraries
– receive a university mensa card for employees and dine at a lower price
– enter the buildings of the TU Berlin at night and on weekends

How to get your campus card:
Please contact your host professor or the head of your institute at the TU Berlin. Your TU professor can provide you with a provisioning letter (“Provisionierungsschreiben”) for the period of your stay.
After you have received your provisioning letter, please turn to the “tubIT-Laden” (the IT-service centre of the TU Berlin) where the staff will take a photo of you and issue your campus card.

tubIT-Laden
Einsteinufer 17, 10587 Berlin, room EN 024
opening hours:
lecture period: Mo–Fr 8–18
semester break: Mo–Fr 10–18

For further details about the process, please find more information on the website

Work

Employment contract

Your employment contract has to be signed before your official start of work. Before the beginning of your employment, your institute and the personnel department will let you know which forms and documents are required. Your contact person in the personnel department can be found here: www.tu-berlin.de/?id=34883

Tax identification number (IdNr.) “Steuerliche Identifikationsnummer”

If you sign an employment contract with the TU Berlin, they will need your date of birth, your tax identification number (IdNr.), your health insurance and information about whether this is your main or secondary occupation. You will get the tax identification number after signing up at the Registration Office.

Taxes and social security

As an employee in Germany you are generally liable for tax and social security. If your research stay is in the context of an employment relationship which is regulated by an employment contract and if you stay longer than half a year, as a rule you will be taxed on your worldwide income and assets.

You will find more information on taxes and social security on this website: www.euraxess.de/en/incoming_researchers.php
Pension

Every researcher with a working contract with the TU Berlin pays a monthly contribution towards the statutory pension insurance scheme, the Deutsche Rentenversicherung (DRV). In addition to the DRV, you might be insured with an occupational pension scheme called the Versorgungsanstalt des Bundes und der Länder (VBL). Please note that if your contract lasts less than 60 months you are able to choose between different products of the VBL. For more information please ask your contact person in the personnel department.

You will find detailed information on DRV and VBL on the following websites:

http://www.deutsche-rentenversicherung.de/Allgemein/en/Navigati on/englisch_index_node.html

Transportation

Public transport

Berlin has a sophisticated public transport system. Buses, subways, urban railways and trams will take you almost everywhere in Berlin. Details of how to get from A to B and how long it will take can be found on the following websites:

www.bvg.de/en
www.s-bahn-berlin.de/en

Deutsche Bahn

The Deutsche Bahn connects all big cities and most of the smaller cities in Germany. You can buy tickets on the internet, in the train station at the ticket machine or at the ticket office. If you are in a hurry, you will also be able to buy your ticket in long-distance trains from the ticket collector. This option is more expensive. Please keep in mind: Before using the local trains or the public transport, please first buy a ticket and validate it. Otherwise you will have to pay a fine.

For more information about the Deutsche Bahn, please visit:
https://www.bahn.de/p_en/view/index.shtml

For more information on the transport system in Berlin, e.g. taxis, railway stations, buses and bus routes, please refer to:
www.berlin.de/en/public-transportation

Buses

An inexpensive way to travel within Germany and Europe is to go by long-distance buses if you do not want to go by train or by plane. Numerous bus companies offer trips to the bigger German and European cities as well as to popular holiday destinations.

For information concerning bus companies, destinations and booking, please visit e.g.:
www.busradar.com
Cycling

Berlin is a bicycle-friendly city. There are plenty of options in Berlin to rent a bike e.g. at “Unirad” at the TU Berlin:
http://unirad.blogspot.de

“Unirad” is basically a self-help workshop, which means you must repair your bike yourself, but the tools are provided. In addition, hints and tips for repair are given.
If you are a newcomer or feel insecure on the bike, the “Radfahrschule” offers lessons for adults, also in English.
www.radfahrschule.de

If you are planning to stay in Berlin for longer, it might be worthwhile to buy a bike. Many bike shops offer used bikes or you can find one on sites such as “Ebay Kleinanzeigen”:
www.kleinanzeigen.ebay.de

Cars and parking

Please be aware of the fact that there is a low emission zone in Berlin. In this area only vehicles which comply with emission standards are allowed. When you enter the zone you need a vehicle sticker. Information about the environmental zone and how to order a vehicle sticker can be found here:
www.stadtentwicklung.berlin.de/umwelt/luftqualitaet/umweltzone/index_en.shtml
Parking spaces can be found in limited numbers around the institutes of the TU Berlin. Parking in the street is partly subject to charge. Please note that not paying the charge may lead to a fine.

Health and emergency numbers

Doctors

In Germany, the first contact usually is a family doctor or a general practitioner called “Hausarzt”. The “Hausarzt” will refer you to a specialist. In order to find a doctor in your surrounding area, please use the following database:

Child benefit

You may be entitled to draw child benefit if you are coming to Germany with your children and if you meet the specific requirements. Child benefit is a state subsidy. For further information, please have a look at:
http://service.berlin.de/familie-partnerschaft-gleichstellung/
Before you leave Berlin and Germany, we kindly ask you to take care of the following formalities.

Check list

- Deregistration at the Registration Office (this should be done not later than one week before your departure). This is especially important in case you want to register again one day for a new residence in Germany. If you have not deregistered yourself the first time, you might get fined.
- Closure of bank account.
- Cancellation of electricity, water, gas, telephone, broadcasting fees and internet. Some of these issues might be handled automatically by your residential home/guesthouse. Please check on that.
- Return of institute keys.
- Return of your university campus card, the library card, books, etc.
- Deregistration of your children from kindergarten or school.
- Paying out of your deposit.
- Application for a forwarding address at the Deutsche Post.
- Registration in the alumni program of the TU Berlin: www.alumni.tu-berlin.de
