

Decoding Antisemitism invites to the evening lecture:

Daniel Allington: Quantifying Antisemitism in the 21st Century

Welcome: Stefanie Schüler-Springorum / Moderation: Uffa Jensen

28. September 2021: 6pm at ZfA

Daniel Allington is Senior Lecturer in Social and Cultural Artificial Intelligence at King's College London. His research primarily focuses on extremism, hate, and disinformation in the contemporary world. By presenting the findings of his research, as well as that of many other leading scholars, he will explain the unique challenges and opportunities of quantitative research on antisemitism in the 21st century.

The event will take place at the Center for Research on Antisemitism (ZfA, Kaiserin-Augusta-Allee 104-106, 10553 Berlin) in compliance with the TU hygiene regulations. Prerequisite for participation is a fully vaccination, recovery or actual testing.

Due to a limited number of seats, please register by September 24th at info@decoding-antisemitism.eu
